"God's greatest gift is human life"

Ronald Reagan

"Le 21e siècle sera religieux ou il ne sera pas"

André Mairaux

Does reality really exist?
Is reality a construction of our brain?

Can we really trust our perceptions?

Is human life a poisoned gift in 2084?

Welcome to the OUT-Reality
propaganda show.

The OUT-Reality Machine can simulate a new reality into your brain.

OUT-Reality is the new religion.

The psychic immigration into the OUT-Realities is the ultimate solution to earth's problems.

"He was a wise man who invented God"

Plato

"Dieu n'existe pas
puisqu'on comprend
maintenant comment il a été inventé par l'être humain."

Nietzsche

"Each one of us is a statistical impossibility around which hover a million other lives that were never destined to be born."

Technical data

This first version of this work was presented in December 1985 in Montreal at the Société de Musique Contemporaine du Québec. This new updated version includes now a soprano singer and a more elaborated video set up. A MIDI "Videotizer" has been invented to control the switching of the 32 video monitors with any kind of MIDI live instruments or composition software.

Productions

Music: Studio Bruit Blanc and Fairlight studio of the Faculty of Music of the University of Montreal.

Video: P.R.I.M. vidéo, Voltgang Productions and Intertel.

Out is produced by Voltgang Productions and Zone Productions.

Special thanks to the Canada Council of the Arts, Ministry of Cultural Affairs of Quebec, Faculty of Music of the University of Montreal, P.R.I.M. vidéo, Ronald Regan, and Marinetti.

Pauline Vaillancourt

Soprano PAULINE VAILLANCOURT is a specialist in contemporary and avant-garde repertory. Her name is linked with first performances of many works by Canadian composers, among them Serge Garant, Gilles Tremblay, Claude Vivier and many others. In addition to her activity in concerts and on radio and television, she performed many operatic roles in repertory by such diverse composers as: Mozart, Bizet, Puccini, Poulenc, Berg, Stockhausen, Aperghis and Kagel. She now makes her home in Paris and appears in concert in many European cities.

Robert M. Leroux

ROBERT LEROUX is currently full time percussion teacher and vice-dean at the Faculty of Music of the University of Montreal. He is also a member and a soloist of the Société de Musique Contemporaine du Québec. He has performed with the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, the Orchestre Métropolitain, the Orchestre de Radio Canada and the National Art Centre Orchestra. He freelances as a percussionist.

René Masino

RENÉ MASINO won first prize in bassoon from the Conservatory of Music of Montreal and was a member of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra for fifteen years. He currently teaches at the Faculty of Music of the University of Montreal where he is also the director of interpretation and jazz programs. He free-lances as bassoonist and saxophonist and plays with the Montreal Saxophone Quartet.

Lux

LUX, the source of knowledge, fire of the Prometheus myth, awakens from the chaos of a mineral world and then is robbed by an unknown human-animal creature. This provokes the creature to split into two parts. It then begins constructing a fantastic machine, symbolic vision of his rational evolution in which he will find himself trapped. The meaning of LUX can be understood in various ways, including the political implications of nuclear light as a positive power as well as a threat for mankind.

Visually, the work makes use of multiple slide material with timing and coordination controlled by a computer. The images are projected into a three-dimensional stage set made up of a variety of white, geometrically shaped modules which could be combined into a myriad of shapes. Two mimes, themselves clothed in geometric costumes, form a part of the overall configurations. The great size, resolution of detail and depth of colour of LUX's projected images combined with its mobile set, create a luxurious and constantly modulating space.

The sound has to fill the hall: thereby, everything appears larger than life and renders the gestures, costumes and images oversized, on a scale almost equal to that of the amplified sounds. The sounds themselves are orchestral in the range of coloristic effects, sustained clusters of pitches, bursts of noise, cascades of frequency modulated bell-like sounds, synthetic voices, etc... The music is conceived so as to create a sensual, visceral atmosphere in a technological context with atomic clock precision.

The overall integration of audio and visual components creates kaleidoscopic world-like sequences of geometric patterns combined with a Romantic sensibility and results in a fused space.

RENÉE BOURASSA

As multi-media, multi-image concept artist and audio-visual producer, RENÉE BOURASSA has directed her research to investigating a new kind of language, integrating audio with visual forms. In the early 1980's, she explored the artistic possibilities of computer-programmed multi-images projected onto moving three-dimensional objects. After having worked on the visual concept of Une autre création du monde and Passage, she founded and directed the multi-media project LUX, a synthesis of her preceding research.

MARCELLE DESCHÊNES

MARCELLE DESCHÊNES is professor of composition and director of the Electroacoustic Composition

Program at the University of Montreal. As a multi-media composer, she began in 1980 to produce pieces integrating electroacoustic or computer music, synthetic voices and body sound art, visual forms, performing arts and a multi-dimensional sound space. After having founded and directed different works as OPERAaaaAH, JOUR "J", deUS irae (Silver Award at the 1986 AMI International Multi-Image Competition), she collaborated on the creation of different multi-media shows produced with visual artists: Ecran Humain (P. St-Jean), LUX (R. Bourassa, J. Collin) and Big Bang II (G. Dyens). She now creates a new kind of spectacle, a technological opera merging voices, circus, electronic and performing arts: WE.

JACQUES COLLIN

As a photographer, technician, producer, and multi-images artist, JACQUES COLLIN collaborated on the production of several multimedia works produced in Quebec, such as OPERAaaaAH (M. Deschênes), E.L.V.I.S. (A. Thibault), Ecran Humain (P. St-Jean, M. Deschênes), deUS irae (M. Deschênes, Silver Award 86 AMI), Solid Salad (M. Lemieux) and LUX (R. Bourassa, M. Deschênes). With these works, he produced the major part of the photography, processing and editing as well as the multi-images programming.

André Fortin

ANDRÉ FORTIN has acquired a mime formation at the Montreal Corporeal Mime School. He then became a teacher in the same school and active member of the Mime Troup Omnibus, with which he worked for 6 years (Beau Monde, Alice, Casse-tête, Europe and Asia Tours).

Laurent Sallard

Mime, actor, author-composer, LAURENT SALLARD has studied at the Montreal Corporeal Mime School and with Sigfrido Aguilar in Mexico.

Louis-Joseph Tassé

LOUIS-JOSEPH TASSÉ is a mime and writer. He studied with the Montreal Corporeal Mime School and has collaborated on a production of the Mime Troup Omnibus.
